Andy Jeremi, Vice President, Relationship Manager at Chandler Asset Management Retires

It is with mixed emotions of both joy and sadness that Chandler Asset Management announces the retirement of Andy Jeremi, Vice President, Relationship Manager, after an illustrious 35-plus year career cultivating relationships in the public sector.

Andy joined Chandler in 2010 after careers in institutional sales and asset management at Union Bank and Bank of America. A graduate in business administration from the University of San Francisco, Andy also received a general certificate from the American Institute of Banking, and has lifetime teaching credentials in banking and finance. In addition, he has a COMPTIA A+ Certification and a California Department of Real Estate Brokers license. Andy is associated with many organizations such as the California Municipal Treasurers Association, the Society of Municipal Finance Officers, the Oregon Municipal Finance

Officers Association, the Washington Municipal Treasurers Association, and the California County Treasurer's Association.

Andy celebrated his 70th birthday on November 30th, with his wife of over 45 years, Lizzie, by his side. Originally from Chile, Andy and Lizzie made the San Francisco area their home for the past several decades, and are active in the Chilean Children's Burned Fund, the Chilean Festival in San Francisco, and the Sausalito-Viña Del Mar Sister Cities program. Andy and Lizzie keep their home country of Chile close to their hearts with several trips there, annually.

Andy served his adopted country in the U.S. Army and fought in Vietnam, earning the Medal of Commendation for meritorious service. In his retirement, Andy plans to write a book which he has researched extensively on the Chileans who came to San Francisco during the Gold Rush and helped to settle parts of Northern California. He will also pursue his passions of cooking the dishes he is famous for (empanadas, barbeque turkey and oyster stuffing!), world travel, photography, and mostly, spending time with Lizzie, his two sons and their families, including three granddaughters.
